MEDIA INFORMATION

CREDENTIALS

Seating at Market Square Arena's press tables is restricted to accredited working media representatives. Non-working media will be seated in reserved seat areas when seats are available. Only those photographers on assignment will be allowed space on the floor and their photo credentials must be worn prominently at all times.

Requests for individual game credentials should be directed to Ed McKee, Director of Media and Public Relations, (Indiana Pacers, 151 N. Delaware Street, Indianapolis, IN 46204) at least six (6) hours prior to the particular game. He and PR secretary Ginny Berg may be reached at 317/263-0800 between the working hours of 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. (EST).

PRESS GATE

The Press Gate is located on the third level, southwest entrance of MSA (300 East Market Street). Only media members who hold 1981-82 Indiana Pacers or NBA Press Credentials will be admitted through this entrance.

MEDIA ROOM

Located on the southwest corner of MSA's floor level (3rd floor), the facilities of the Pacers Media Room are open at 5:30 p.m. (EST) to members of the working press only. Telephones and a work area are provided here for post-game work since courtside press tables are removed following each game.

SERVICES

Complete statistics along with pre-game press notes, line-ups, information regarding injuries, light meals, and other pertinent facts will be furnished by the Pacers Publicity Department. Play-by-play and halftime box scores will be delivered directly to the press table and complete final boxes, fourth-quarter play-by-plays and coaches' quotes will be available immediately following the game in the Media Room. TELECOPIER—The Indiana Pacers will provide one telecopier for use in the Media Room. AMFAX service is available through Trent Tirsway, 2519 Ryan Lane, Indianapolis, IN 46220. (Phone: 317/262-2120 or at home 317/251-3240.) Also available is TELESPORT service via George Montgomery (317/897-8063 or 897-6482).

RADIO AND TELEVISION

Electronic media representing the visiting team will be assigned to the northeast end of the press table, near the visiting bench. If notified in advance, the Pacers Publicity Department will assist in arranging pre-game and post-game interviews. Television cameramen will be allowed space on the floor during the game.

SAM NASSI

Owner, Indiana Pacers

Owner of one of only 23 businesses of its kind in the nation, Sam Nassi is in his third season as an owner of a team in the National Basketball Association. Originally just one of many corporate interests, the Indiana Pacers and the thought of fielding a winning NBA team in Indianapolis are a pair of key goals in his life.

A new era began for the Pacers when Nassi was introduced as the owner of the Indiana franchise May 3, 1979. While experiencing both frustrating and satisfying moments in the past two seasons, Nassi has given the Pacers the financial backing which didn't exist here previously.

It was Nassi who decided his club needed a fresh face at the coaching helm and it was Nassi who offered the Pacers' bench post to Jack McKinney, who orchestrated the Los Angeles Lakers' title team in 1980 and last year as the Pacers' coach was voted the NBA Coach-of-the-Year by the league's sportswriters and sportscasters.

Always a sports fan (initially of the Dodgers back in their Brooklyn days), he was never good enough to play varsity at Lincoln High School in Brooklyn or at City College of New York. "I was just good enough for the block softball team and to play quarterback on the sand at Brighton Beach," he said.

In the business world, however, Nassi is known as a superstar. Within 10 years since he formed Sam Nassi Company, he has become famous worldwide as a master salesman. His company achieved its greatest success aiding major corporations to realize profits from previously non-producing assets, and in inventory liquidation sales. In the past few years Nassi's company sales are in excess of $2 billion.

Nassi made his greatest mark when a United States federal judge awarded him the contract over numerous bidders in the W. T. Grant Company bankruptcy liquidation sale three years ago. This award, based upon achievement (net dollars to the estate), ultimately exceeded $6 million—unquestionably the largest such commission award in the history of the U. S. Courts.

The success of that sale, for both himself and the Grant Company, has made him prominent in his field. This recognition has brought him such recent clients as May Co., Robert Hall, Revlon, Brunswick Sporting Goods, Spalding Sporting Goods, Food Fair, Globe Discount Stores, a division of Walgreen Co., Korvettes and Goldblatt's Department Store.

Nassi attended CCNY and the University of Southern California where he majored in Merchandising. The 59-year-old New York City native now lives in Beverly Hills, Calif., and his company maintains offices in both cities.

Son of a New York restaurant owner, he moved to California shortly after his discharge from the Air Force where during World War II he flew 38 missions out of Italy as a navigator.

He and his wife of 33 years, Anka, have three children: Albert, Lisa and Kim. Lisa is married to Brent Merritt, an attorney in Beverly Hills. Albert, formerly a practicing attorney in San Francisco, is now a vice president of the company and Kim is a student at the University of California at San Diego. The Nassis also are the proud grandparents of three: Garrett Nassi (11), Shayne Merritt (3) and Jordan Richard Merritt (an infant).

BOB SALYERS

General Manager

The one thing uppermost in Bob Salyers' mind as general manager of the Indiana Pacers is to help Jack McKinney and Sam Nassi build the club into a solid National Basketball Association franchise. And he doesn't take the task lightly.

Salyers, a native of Knox, Ind., has given considerably less time to his practice of law and has instead put much of his energy into his dual role of G.M., as well as team counsel.

Although this is Salyers' first season as general manager, he is certainly no stranger to the Pacers' organization and its operation. The Indiana University-Indianapolis Law School graduate acted as the club's general counsel for two years prior to assuming his dual responsibilities last April.

In fact, it was Salyers' law practice (Salyers, Eiteljorg, Cracraft and Maguire) that initially got him involved with the Pacers, having acted as attorney for Sam Nassi when the very successful Beverly Hills (Calif.) businessman purchased the team in 1979.

Prior to his law studies, the 35-year-old Purdue graduate earned a bachelor's degree in animal science in 1968 from the West Lafayette, Ind., school. He also is a U.S. Army veteran, having spent 13 months in Vietnam.

Salyers, who welcomes constructive comments (at 317/263-0800) regarding Pacer improvements and service to the community, has no ambition to make a life-long career in pro sports. He admits he's a lawyer first. He does plan, however, to continue in his role until he's achieved his goal of building the Pacers into a solid NBA franchise.

Salyers and his wife of 13 years, the former Beverly Jernas, have two children, Kyle, 7, and Krisha, 5.

JACK McKINNEY
Coach

The man's been written up from coast to coast—and deservedly so! Jack McKinney, the NBA's Coach-of-the-Year in 1981, is in his second year at the helm of the Indiana Pacers.

Last year found the Pacers communicating, hustling, blending, producing and—ultimately—winning (44-38), thanks primarily to McKinney, handpicked assistant, George Irvine, and of course, his players.

Only the third coach in the Pacers' 14-year history, the others being Bob Leonard and Larry Staverman, McKinney quickly became admired and respected within the community, finishing third in the Indianapolis Star's "Man of the Year" voting conducted by feature columnist Tom Keating.

Back from the adversity of a near-fatal bicycle accident (Nov. 8, 1979), McKinney was featured in numerous local, regional and national publications for a pair of transformations.

First was his own personal comeback, one which included months of determined rehabilitation. Second was his turnaround of the Pacers, a club which performed in its first NBA Playoffs since joining the loop in 1976. Though eliminated by the Philadelphia 76ers in a two-game mini-series, McKinney was encouraged by his club last season, especially after a subpar Houston squad (40-42) caught fire and extended Boston to a five-game championship series.

A friend and coach of his players, McKinney keeps things in proper perspective. Rarely does he get too excited about a victory or too downhearted about a loss.

Perhaps it is his low-key, lighthearted approach which has kept his players from feeling too much pressure, particularly as they battled for a playoff position late in the winter.

In fact, the club—during the long and rugged 82-game schedule—had losing streaks of four games only twice, once early (Nov. 2-10) and once late (March 14-20). But the Pacers, like their coach, took these in stride and rebounded from injuries and adversity. The last four-game skid was followed by a three-game winning streak, despite a regular-season ending with a heartbreaking loss to Chicago (101-97), as Indiana earned sixth spot in the Eastern Conference Playoffs.

Contacted and contracted by Pacers' owner Sam Nassi June 2, 1980, McKinney is a 1957 grad of St. Joseph's College in Philadelphia. The Chester, Pa., native spent 16 years as a high school and college coach, including eight seasons as mentor at his alma mater ('67-74). In his final collegiate coaching season (1974) he was named "Eastern College Coach of the Year" by his peers.

The 46-year-old (July 13, 1935) resident of Zionsville, Ind., now is in his eighth year as a pro coach, having spent two years as an assistant under Larry Costello at Milwaukee and three more seasons under his high school and college coach, Jack Ramsay, at Portland before landing a much-coveted job at Los Angeles in 1979, where he was 9-4 through early November, orchestrating the Lakers' NBA title in 1980.

McKinney and his wife, the former Claire Cranny, have four children. One daughter, Sue, is an employee of an Indianapolis television station (WTHR), while another, Ann, attends the University of Notre Dame. John is a freshman at Boston College and Dennis is a junior at Brebeuf High School.

GEORGE IRVINE

Assistant Coach

George Irvine, formerly an assistant basketball coach for the Denver Nuggets, is in his second year as assistant coach of the Indiana Pacers under coach Jack McKinney.

Irvine's duties with the Pacers include being in charge of pro scouting and, therefore, game preparation, coaching the squad in games and practices and providing some input on the collegiate draft.

"My ultimate goal is to be a head coach in the pros," said the mustachioed Irvine, "but I'm not in any hurry. That goal is one reason why I moved here from Denver. Jack is a man from whom I'm going to learn. He's going to prepare me to be a head coach one day."

Irvine, 33, has been chief aide to Nuggets' coach Donnie Walsh for a season and a half, as well as serving under former Denver coach Larry Brown for a year and a half. He also was a part-time assistant and scout for Brown at Denver in 1976-77.

A 6-6 swing player who played five seasons of guard and forward for the Virginia Squires in the American Basketball Association, Irvine averaged 9.6 points in his 325-game pro career, hitting nearly 52 percent of his field goal attempts and 83 percent of his free throw shots.

A collegiate star at Washington ('70) where he still holds the Huskies' career field goal percentage mark (.558), the Seattle native was acquired by Denver—along with the rights to David Thompson—from Virginia for Mack Calvin, Mike Green and Jan van Breda Kolff in 1975. That pre-season, however, he suffered an injury to his left knee which curtailed his playing career after only three games as a Nugget.

Irvine—whose name rhymes with "Gervin"—is married to the former Joan Helfant. The couple has two sons: Toby, 5, and Jaime, 2.

JERRY OLIVER

Director of Player Personnel

The man known as "J.O." has come a long way since the days as basketball coach at Indianapolis Washington High and a pair of prep phenoms named George McGinnis and Billy Keller. Now, after 26 years of coaching at all levels of basketball, including six with the Indiana Pacers ('74-80), Jerry Oliver is in his second season as the Pacers' director of player personnel.

Following three years as assistant coach to Lou Watson at Indiana University ('69-71), Jerry returned to Indy where he coached Warren Central High School for three seasons before joining the Pacers.

The fact that he has been a coach is one that 50-year-old Oliver thinks helps him. "In reality, the supply of talent is the lifeline of the organization," he said. "The draft—especially the top two rounds—has always been important, and it's even more so now with the new direction the free agent market has gone."

The Indiana high school all-star coach in 1971 and 1972, Oliver feels pleased to work with a premier NBA coach like McKinney.

"I really enjoy working with Jack and George (Irvine, the team's assistant coach). I think I have a good feel for Jack's thoughts, philosophies and preferences in the area of player personnel," the 1953 graduate of Ball State University said.

Oliver and his wife, Ann, have two sons, Bryan (20) and Mark (19), both of whom are students at Indiana University.

DAVID CRAIG

Athletic Trainer/ Team Administrator

While he sits at the end of the bench, he's by no means a bench warmer. In fact, David Craig—in his 12th season as Indiana Pacer trainer—might qualify as a team MVP-of-sorts.

One of the most knowledgeable and dedicated trainers in the profession, Craig's reputation is well known by players throughout the league. In fact, several return to Indianapolis to receive treatments during the off season. He was also responsible for setting up the training facilities at Market Square Arena, considered by most observers to be among the best in the country.

In addition to his work with the Pacers, Craig is president and co-founder of Indianapolis Physical Therapy and Sports Medicine, Inc., with locations on the city's west and north sides. Craig and his staff are now able to offer treatments to high school athletes as well as Indianapolis residents in need of physical therapy.

A graduate of Purdue University (1970), Craig worked for Pinky Newell in the Boilermakers' training department.

Craig, his wife, Linda, and children Jennifer (8) and Brian (5) live in Indianapolis in a farm house which is more than 120 years old. For the past nine years the family has worked on its renovation which should be completed by next fall.

BOB WHITSITT

Assistant General Manager

Bob Whitsitt enters his fourth year with the Pacers in a new capacity, that of Assistant General Manager. Whitsitt's responsibilities include administrative operations, sponsor merchandising, scheduling, and assisting in contract and player negotiations.

Having joined the organization as an intern from the Ohio State Sports Administration program in 1978, he has since gained experience in all areas within the front office. The 25-year-old Wisconsin native is the youngest sports executive in the NBA.

He attended the University of Wisconsin-Stevens Point, earning his bachelor's degree in Communications in 1977, as well as lettering in football, basketball, and baseball. He received his master's degree from OSU in 1978.

Recently selected to the Outstanding Young Men of America by the United States Jaycees, Bob is single and lives in Indianapolis.

DOUG McKEE

Controller

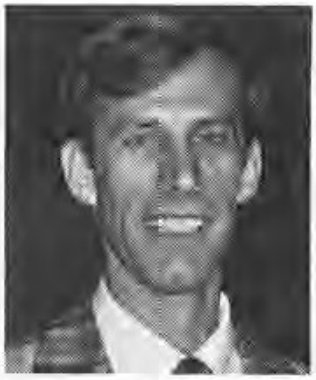
Doug McKee is in his sixth year as the Pacers' Controller. As Controller, McKee is in charge of day-to-day financial matters for the club.

Before joining the Pacers in 1976, McKee worked in public accounting for George S. Olive and Company four years, and in industrial accounting two years. He is a graduate of Ball State University ('70), with a Bachelor of Business Administration degree in accounting. McKee—no relation to Pacers' PR Director Ed McKee—is a Certified Public Accountant.

Doug and his wife, Kathy, reside in Pittsboro, to the west of Indianapolis, with their son, Justin (5).

ED McKEE

Director of Media and Public Relations



Ed McKee is in his third season as Director of Media and Public Relations for the Pacers. His responsibilities for the club include preparation and distribution of information to the media, Pacer publications, and overseeing the club's Speakers Bureau.

A graduate of Rockhurst College in 1967 and—ironically—selected by the Pacers in the initial ABA draft as a 6-8 center, he subsequently worked for Goodyear's Public Relations Department in Akron, Ohio, for three years before becoming Sports Information Director at Indiana State University in 1971.

At the Terre Haute school for nearly nine years, he received several awards for his work in publicizing stars such as cager Larry Bird and international gymnast Kurt Thomas.

Ed, his wife, Linda, and three children, Erin (12), Carrie (9) and Eddie (3), reside in suburban Carmel.

GREG McCOLLAM

Director of Promotions

Greg McCollam enters his first year as Director of Promotions after serving as the club's assistant in that area last season.

In his new role, McCollam will be responsible for game promotions, including preliminary games and halftimes, as well as other promotional activities.

McCollam came to Indianapolis from Charleston, West Virginia, where he spent four years as the University of Charleston's Sports Information Director. While there, he received numerous national awards for outstanding athletic publications and was twice named West Virginia Conference SID-of-the-Year.

McCollam, a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon, started with the Pacers in September of 1980 as an administrative intern before being named Assistant Director of Promotions in December of that year.

BOB LAMEY

Voice of the Pacers

Back for his fifth season as Indiana Pacers play-by-play announcer is WIBC's Bob Lamey. For the third consecutive year, the enthusiastic Lamey also will handle television games via the simulcast format for WTTV, Channel 4.

Lamey, a 26-year veteran of the radio business, got his start in 1955 at KNAL Radio while still a high school student in Victoria, Texas. While attending Victoria Junior College and Texas Christian University, Lamey continued his radio efforts with KVIC Radio.

After completing his coursework at TCU, Lamey earned a master's degree in Radio and Television at Ohio University.

Voice of the Carolina Cougars of the American Basketball Association for five seasons, Lamey also is experienced in baseball, football and hockey broadcasts. While with Carolina, he served as the Cougars' Director of Communications for one season.

Lamey, heard afternoons as WIBC's sports personality, and his wife, Bonnie, have three daughters—Becky, 16, Gayle, 13, and Sheryl, 10.

INDIANA PACERS RADIO NETWORK

The Pacers and WIBC Radio in Indianapolis (1070) will broadcast all 82 regular season games with Bob Lamey as the play-by-play voice. The Pacers are pleased to have other Indiana stations join the network. They are:

MARKET SQUARE ARENA

Market Square Arena, built by the city of Indianapolis and completed in 1974, is one of the premier sports and entertainment showplaces in the Midwest. Leased to Market Square Associates for 40 years, the building was designed by Kennedy, Brown and Associates and constructed by Huber, Hunt and Nichols, Inc.

Ground breaking ceremonies were held on Oct. 20, 1971, and on Sept. 15, 1974, the building was officially opened. The Pacers fell to San Antonio, 129-121, in double overtime in their first appearance in the building on Oct. 18, 1974.

Five nights later, Oct. 23, 1974, saw Indiana take its first victory in its "new" home as the Pacers dumped the Spirits of St. Louis, 122-107.

Market Square Arena highlights include the 1980 NCAA basketball semi-finals and finals; the 1978 and 1979 NCAA basketball Mid-East Regionals; the annual Indiana state high school basketball and wrestling championships and Elvis Presley's last concert on June 26, 1977.

Last year, MSA and the city of Indianapolis hosted the 1980 U.S. Gymnastics Team and Game 5 of the Gold Medal Games Series, pitting the 1980 U.S. Olympic Basketball Team versus a squad of NBA All-Stars coached by Jack McKinney. And last Sept. 19 the Pacers and the "Landon Turner All-Stars" drew more than 16,000 fans and raised nearly $93,000 for Turner and his family's large medical expenses.

MSA, site of countless of sports and spectator events including circuses, rodeos, ice shows, major concerts, tennis and hockey, is tentatively scheduled to host basketball and hockey finals as well as speed skating and figure skating in the National Sports Festival IV in July, 1982.

Seating capacity for concerts is 18,250; boxing is 18,250; basketball is 17,092 and hockey is 16,000. All the seats in the circular arena are free from posts and other obstructions of view.

The finest in dining is provided at Aisle 25 restaurant, located on the seventh level on the south side. Numerous concession stands also are available.

Indiana Pacer History

INDIANA PACERS HISTORY

Like a young athlete who patiently listens to his coach about working and sacrificing today for greater rewards tomorrow, the Indiana Pacers through the course of the last 14 years have also learned about "paying dues."

Along the way have been tremendous successes: ABA Championships in three of the team's first six seasons ('70, '72 and '73) and beautifully skilled athletes such as Roger Brown, Mel Daniels, Bob Netolicky, Freddie Lewis, Billy Keller and George McGinnis. But also along the way have been years of questionable stability and financial standing which, in 1977, led to a Fourth of July "Save the Pacers" telethon.

MEL IN THE MIDDLE—A key reason for the Indiana Pacers' three ABA titles ('70, '72 and '73) was the dominant play of center Mel Daniels, who rode roughshod on the rest of the league's pivotmen. With his keen interest in horses, Pacer officials presented him with this saddle early in 1971.

Now, however, the Pacers are on the threshold of a promising future, for the first time on firm financial ground thanks to the ownership of Beverly Hills (Calif.) businessman Sam Nassi. The Pacers, under the hardwood direction of Jack McKinney, the 1981 NBA Coach-of-the-Year, stand ready to reap the rewards that await those who "pay their dues."

Prior to February 2, 1967 the people of Indianapolis had little reason to think of such matters—their city had no professional basketball team to call its own. On that day, though, a franchise in the newly formed American Basketball Association was offered a group of Hoosier businessmen who, armed with the results of two feasibility studies concluding the city could indeed support such a team, accepted the challenge of producing professional basketball in Indiana.

Indiana Professional Sports, Inc. was formed to own and operate the new franchise and on June 16, 1967 the team was dubbed the "Indiana Pacers" in accordance with its intention to "set the pace" in pro basketball ranks.

Mike Storen took the club's reins as first general manager and Larry Staverman, a former NBA player and assistant coach at Notre Dame, soon became the team's first head coach. The Pacers' first game was played on October 14, 1967 at the Fairgrounds Coliseum where they crushed the Kentucky Colonels 117-95. The team's first final record was 38-40, good enough for a first ABA playoff berth, which Pittsburgh ended three games later.

It was the 1968-69 season which opened the Bob Leonard chapter of the Pacer saga. Leonard took the Pacer helm nine games into the season, a position he held until the conclusion of the 1980 campaign. During his 12-year career as head coach, he also served four years as general manager.

In 1976, following nine years of ABA participation, the Pacers' aspirations of affiliation with the National Basketball Association were fully realized. In their ABA wake, the Pacers left a record of three league championships (in 1969-70, 1971-72 and 1972-73), three Division Championships and nine consecutive ABA playoff appearances. The team also compiled seven straight winning seasons (from 1968-69 to 1974-75) and a stellar .574 ABA win percentage.

Since aligning themselves with the NBA, however, the Pacers have posted just one winning season and playoff berth (44-38 in '80-81). Nevertheless, today the Pacers are a solid part of the NBA and Indianapolis scene.

COVER ART—C. W. Mundy, alias "Doctor Brush," of Nashville, Ind., painted this publication's cover especially for the Indiana Pacers. The original, a 20-by-32 oil painting, depicts the Pacers' Jack McKinney—1981 NBA Coach-of-the-Year—prominently displayed with assistant coach George Irvine, trainer David Craig and the Indiana Pacers' logo.

Mundy, a 1964 graduate of Indianapolis Howe High School, played basketball for Ball State University and received his Bachelor of Science in education with an emphasis in art from BSU in 1969. Four years later, Mundy, 36, earned a Master of Arts degree from Long Beach State.

THE GREATEST ATHLETES IN THE WORLD WEAR CONVERSE.

The greatest basketball players like Dr. J. The greatest football players like Tony Dorsett. The greatest tennis players like Chris Evert. The greatest base-stealers like Lou Brock. The greatest runners from the Boston Marathon to the Olympics. They all wear Converse shoes. Because the greatest athletes in the world need the greatest comfort – the greatest traction – the greatest protection they can get. And so do you.
